I. LAND AND PEOPLE

A. Land

1. Korea, situated in the north-eastern part of the Asian continent, consists of the Korean peninsula and 4,198 islands around it. Its total area is 222,209,231 square kilometres, of which mountains constitute 79.87 per cent and plains 20.13 per cent. It is sea-bound on three sides.
2. Korea was liberated from the colonial rule of the Japanese imperialists on 15 August 1945. It was divided into north and south at 38° north latitude at first and after the Korean War at the military demarcation line defined in the Armistice Agreement as the boundary. The area of the country over which the DPRK's sovereignty is exercised is 122,762,338 square kilometres, of which the mainland is 122,457,385 square kilometres and the islands are 304,953 square kilometres.

B. People, language and religion

3. The DPRK is a homogenous national State. The Koreans have lived on the Korean territory and created time-honoured history and culture from the early stages of human development such as the early, middle and later periods of the palaeolithic era.
4. As of 31 December 1996, the population of the DPRK was 22,114,000, of which the male population was 10,782,000 and the female population 11,332,000. The capital city, Pyongyang, had 2.9 million people.
5. The language of the Koreans is Korean. The Korean language was created and has been developed by the Korean people through a long historical period, and is characterized by its homogeneity and purity. The Korean language, the sole national language of the Korean people, is spoken throughout the whole territory of Korea.
6. The DPRK has no State religion. The State guarantees freedom of religion. There are people who believe in Buddhism, Christianity, Roman Catholicism and Chondoism in the country.

II. GENERAL POLITICAL STRUCTURE

A. Brief political history

7. Korea, which was formed as a State before the thirtieth century B.C., developed itself creating its own culture. In the nineteenth century, however, the feudal State of Korea was gravely weakened by the corruption and incompetence of the feudal rulers.
8. Japan illegally fabricated the "Ulsa 5-point Treaty" in November 1905, the "Jongmi 7-point Treaty" in 1907 and the "Korea-Japan Amalgamation Treaty" in 1910 to usurp the diplomatic and domestic rights and turn Korea completely into its colony.

9. The Korean people waged a vigorous revolutionary struggle against the Japanese imperialist aggressors for 20 years under the leadership of the respected President Kim Il Sung. The Korean people achieved the historic cause of national restoration on 15 August 1945.
10. After liberation, Korea was divided in half owing to the interference of foreign forces, and the two sides traversed diametrically different courses.
11. In the north, the Provisional People's Committee of North Korea was established on 8 February 1946 based on the local power organs formed in all areas on the initiative of the people; democratic reforms were carried out and a genuine people's democratic system set up. And by the first democratic elections of historic significance, the People's Committee of North Korea was formed in February 1947 and the transition to socialism began.
12. In an effort to check the crisis of national break-up, general elections for a unified central Government were held throughout the whole territory of the north and south of Korea in August 1948 and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, representing the interests of all the Korean people, was founded on 9 September 1948. The founding of the DPRK meant the advent of an independent people's power of a new type and was a historic proclamation of the birth of Juche Korea.
13. The Republic has made an onward march through trying ordeals under the Juche idea.
14. The Korean people won the three-year Fatherland Liberation War and defended the Republic with honour. The Korean people completed the socialist transformation of the relations of production in towns and farm villages in only four to five years after the war. As a result, an anthropocentric socialist system in the Korean style was established.
15. Today, the Korean people, under the seasoned leadership of the dear Comrade Kim Jong Il, are making strenuous efforts to abolish all sorts of backwardness and make great progress in the ideological, technical, cultural and other fields upholding the banner of the Juche idea, to add glory to the socialist system and to achieve the country's independent peaceful reunification, the supreme task confronting the nation.

III. GENERAL LEGAL FRAMEWORK WITHIN WHICH HUMAN RIGHTS ARE PROTECTED

A. Legislative measures taken for human rights protection

30. The DPRK regards human rights as the independent rights which people ought to exercise as social beings in political, economic, cultural and every other sphere of social life and actively strives to protect and realize them.

32. The Juche-oriented idea of human rights was embodied in the Ten-point Programme of the Association for the Restoration of the Fatherland published in May 1936, when the anti-Japanese armed struggle was being waged. With a view to ensuring completely the social and political rights of all people, article 6 of this Programme stipulates: "Freedom of speech, the press, assembly and association shall be realized, the Japanese terrorist rule and the remnants of feudal ideas opposed and all political prisoners released." And on human equality and respect of all people, article 7 states: "Discriminatory status systems and other inequalities shall be abolished, human equality of sex, nation, religion, etc. guaranteed, social position of women improved and the dignity of females respected."

For the democratization of the judicature as well as the democratic socio-political reform, the committee formulated the Rules of the Provisional People's Committee of North Korea (6 March 1946), the Basic Principles of the Composition and Function of the Judicial Board, the Court, and the Public Procurators' Office of the Provisional People's Committee of North Korea (6 March 1946), the Rules of the Criminal Justice of the North Korean Judicial Organs (14 May 1946) and the Law on the Criminal Hearing by the Public Procurators' Office and the Preliminary Examination or Security Organs of North Korea (20 June 1946).

B. General legislative structure for human rights protection

47. In the DPRK, the State provides all citizens with true democratic rights, freedom and a happy material and cultural life. The main bodies for the provision of democratic rights and freedom to the people are the people's committees and the administrative and economic committees at all levels. Judicial, procuratorial and public security organs also assume the mission of protecting human rights. The work is done by the public organizations such as the Democratic Lawyers' Association and the bar association.
48. There is a compensation system for the citizens whose rights are infringed. Citizens may appeal to the people's power organs, or judicial or other State organs when their rights are violated. The State organs examine the case in accordance with due procedures and have the victim properly compensated if the appeal proves to be right. Unfairly detained or punished people are compensated according to the Civil Law which provides that an organ, enterprise or organization is responsible if any of its members has harmed another's property or person while on duty.

49. The rights provided by the international instruments on human rights are reliably protected by the Socialist Constitution and other laws in the DPRK. No right is either restricted or reduced.

50. The DPRK Government makes every effort to implement the international human rights instruments with credit.

51. The provisions of the instruments are applied either by being turned into domestic laws and regulations or directly.

52. The DPRK has recognized the rights contained in the instruments in its laws and regulations as well as in the Socialist Constitution, and has taken or is taking practical measures to realize them. As a result, the rights are well protected. DPRK citizens are sufficiently ensured true democratic freedom and rights. Non-discrimination is required by all the provisions of the Socialist Constitution that are related to citizens' rights.
