The population of children under 18 constitutes more than half (50.6%) of the total population of Nigeria. The population is almost equally distributed between both sexes, with a slightly higher percentage (51.1%) being male children, across the three age groups of 0-5, 6-11 and 12 – 17 years.

The distribution of children in the three age groups shows the following proportions:

12 – 17	26%

The pattern of the children populations is the same for the three years in focus: - 2001, 2002 and 2003.

- 2 In light of Article 4 of the Convention, please provide additional disaggregated data for the years 2002, 2003 and 2004, on budget allocations and trends (in absolute figures and percentages of the national and regional budgets or GDP) allocated to the implementation of the Convention for the following areas:
- a) education (different types of education, i.e. pre-primary, primary and secondary education);
 - b) health care (different types of health services, i.e. primary health care, vaccination programmes, adolescent health care and other health care services for children);

2c) Programmes and services for children with disabilities;

No specific budget trend information is available at the time of this report in respect of programmes and services for children with disabilities;

2d) Support programmes for families;

At the time of this report specific information is only available in respect of provisions for NAPEP;

2e) support for children living below the poverty line;

Nigeria has a very large population of the poor with 70% living below 1US$ a day and 90% living below 2 US$ a day (children inclusive). The budgetary allocation to NAPEP which seeks to support programmes for families necessarily addresses the issues of support for the children of such families. However, the data for the specific proportion of the allocation used for supporting children as distinct from adult is not presently available;

2f) the protection of children who are in need of alternative care including the support of care institutions

The relevant information here has been provided in Table 1.2.1. (i); above

2g) programmes and activities for the prevention of and protection from child abuse and child sexual exploitation and child labour;

The Budget allocation for programmes and activities for the prevention of and protection from child abuse and child sexual exploitation and child labour have been captured under Table 1.2.1 referred to as Care-for-the Minor. In addition, are the budgetary allocation to the Police, NAPTIP, Immigration, Social Welfare and Juvenile Courts. Out of these allocations, the specific amount used for children cannot be ascertained. There is also donor financial support, the quantum of which is not readily available.

2h) programmes and services for street children and abandoned children;

Same as in 2g above;

2i) juvenile justice and the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders

The proportions of the allocation meant for the Police, Judiciary, Ministry of Justice, Child Development Department, Social Welfare, Prisons and the National Human Rights Commission, are utilized for juvenile justice administration is not readily available. Furthermore, there is considerable financial and technical support from the donor communities such as UNICEF, EU, and USAID.

Please also indicate the expenses of the private sector, in particular for health and education.

Even though, Government has not collated the statistics on the quantum of private sector investment in education, particularly on the nature of schools, personnel, structures and equipments; it is apparent that the level of investment is significant and growing.

In relation to health, the numerous private clinics, hospitals, pharmacies and patent medicine stores attest to substantial level of investment in health by the private sector.

3 With reference to children deprived of a family environment and separated from parents, please provide disaggregated data (by gender, age groups, ethnic groups, administrative states, urban and rural areas) for the years 2001, 2002 and 2003 on the number of children:

- a) separated from their parents;
- b) placed in institutions;
- c) placed with foster families; and
- d) adopted domestically or through inter-country adoptions.

3a. Separated from their parents

The available data on the phenomenon of children separated from parents in the country are in different categories. These are street children, children involved in hazardous labor who are separated from parents and children living in institutions.

There also exists within the country two broad categories of street children:

- i) Children on the street
- ii) Children of the street

There are also two sub categories of children of the street:

- i) Children who live with their parent/s on the street and children
- ii) Children without parents on the street

While there is no immediate disaggregated data on the broad categories captioned under the street children phenomenon, there is currently a NATIONAL BASELINE SURVEY being conducted by the UNICEF CRC Chair at the University of Lagos and the UNDS in Nigeria, which commenced in 2004, and will be concluded in 2006.

The study is on the protection and participation issues as they affect children separated from parents with particular focus on street children, trafficked children, child domestic workers, child labour as in construction industry and agriculture, and on other thematic areas like: sexual exploitation of children and child prostitution; child/youth violence, youth crime and consumption of drugs, alcohol and other substances.

(3b) placed in institutions

A recent survey on Assessment of Institutional Child Care Centres in Nigeria by State Ministries of Women Affairs in collaboration with UNICEF in year 2003 are indicated thus:

Samples of 199 Institutional Child Care Centres in Nigeria were selected for an in-depth study from all the 36 states and the Federal Capital Territory. A purposive sampling approach was used that ensured, a good representation of what exists in each States/zones in the whole country, in terms of the number of the institutional childcare centres, the ownership and rationale for setting it up, the number of inmates, sources of funding, budget and expenditure, the institutional policies and types of facilities existing including the geographical spread between the rural and urban areas.

The centres fall within three categories namely orphanages/motherless babies’ homes, disabled/rehabilitation centres and destitute/remand homes.

Number of Children in institutional child care centres

The findings indicate that in the 36 states and the Federal Capital Territory, the profile of the institutional child care centres shows that 44 per cent are orphanages, 34 percent are rehabilitation centres, with only 22 percent being remand homes. A total of 68 percent belongs to various States and Local Governments spread across the country, with 38 per cent situated in the urban areas, 26 per cent in the semi urban areas and the remaining 36 per cent situated in the rural areas.

There are a total of 8,614 residents in the centres studied, with 61 per cent being boys, and 39 per cent girls. The centres in the 'D' zonal field States top the list with the greatest number of centres and those in the 'A' zonal field States took the lead in terms of residents. The least of centres were reported from the 'C' zonal field states while the 'B' zonal Field states is at the bottom ladder of residents .

Eighty seven (87) orphanages were studied in the country, with 34 per cent in the ‘A’ field zonal states followed by ‘C’ field Zonal states, with the least number of 19 per cent being from the ‘D’ field zone. Seventy two ((72) per cent of the orphanages are owned or run by private individuals, NGOs and Faith Based Organisations, compared to 28 per cent belonging to the State governments.

There are 1,805 residents—47 per cent girls and 53 per cent boys, with the age range from one week to 18 years.

The rehabilitation centres provide care and emotional stability for these sets of children namely; those physically challenged/handicapped, mentally retarded, blind, deaf, deaf and dumb, and others in difficult circumstances. There is no desegregation according to types or nature of disabilities in the centres covered in the survey, as a more detailed national data is captured under children with disabilities in Tables 1.4.1—1.4.3 below.

Remand homes

The Borstal Institutions and Remand Centres Act Cap 38, LFN,1990 mandates the setting up of remand homes and correctional centres, which put the ambit of ownership on the States as shown in Table 1.3.7. There is no private institution running a remand home, as the 44 centres surveyed in the country, are all state owned.

Comparatively, only 11 per cent of children resident in the orphanages particularly are between 2 weeks old and 3 years; with the largest numbers recorded from the ‘A’ and ‘D’ zonal field States. 10 per cent are in the 3-5 years age bracket, while 22 per cent are in the 6-11 age range. The highest prevailing rate came from children aged 11-18 years with 37 per cent, forming the core number of children in our institutional child care centres, and these resides mostly in the rehabilitation centres. The remand homes also act as places of protection for destitute, mentally retarded, lost and found children plus those beyond parental control and those in conflict with the law, whose age range varies from 3 to 18 years and above 18.

Some of the centres especially those in the ‘D’ zonal field States still accommodate adults in the institutional child care centres. Twenty per cent of residents in the centres are above 18 years old. There is a considerable evidence to suggest that the rehabilitation centres provide care and protection for a greater percentage of this class of adults residing in centres meant for children. This is because they are constrained to remain in the centres due to the physical disabilities, which have left most of them incapable of reintegrating into the larger society, and also because some of them were abandoned in the homes and were not taken up for fostering or adoption.

The survey indicates an admixture of children with varying age’s resident both in the orphanages, rehabilitation centres and the remand homes.

3c) placed with foster families; and

As at the time of this report, current data available on children placed with foster families have not been collated, due to reasons explained in 3(d) hereunder.

3d) adopted domestically or through inter-country adoptions.

There have been movements of responsibilities for children matters between States' Social Welfare Departments to Child Development Departments. This slow process of transition has resulted in the department's concentrating on substantive issues of attending to the needs and welfare of children, to the detriment of data collection and collation. Measures are being put in place to enable the new Child Development Departments develop appropriate mechanisms for data gathering, collation and analysis on children adopted domestically

Nigeria as a country does not support inter-country adoptions, and there is no mechanism in place to monitor the status of children adopted and taken out of the country. Until there is a Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on inter- country adoptions, which will ensure appropriate monitoring of adopted children outside the jurisdiction of their home countries, Nigeria does not intend to participate in inter-country adoptions.

4. Please specify the number of children with disabilities, disaggregated by gender, age groups, ethnic groups, for the years 2001, 2002 and 2003:

4a) Living with their families;

As at the time of this report there is no available data on children with disabilities desegregated according to the number living with families.

4b) Living in institutions;

Table 1.3.6 and Figure 1.3.3 above indicate zonal distribution and ownership of rehabilitation centres, and gender distribution of residents in the rehabilitation centres, respectively.

4c) Attending regular schools; (d) attending special schools; and (e) not attending schools

Table 1.4.1 below shows the distribution of population of children with disability by literacy status. The rate of literacy of children varied with age and sex. About half of children with disability were not literate. Female children with disability were less literate than male children.

The rate of disability of children per 1000 is 3.1 and 3.0 for ages 0-5 and 6-11, and in these age groups disability does not vary greatly by sex. For ages 12-17 the rate of disability increases from that in childhood, to 4.2 disabled persons per 1000. The rate is higher among male than female.

- a) number of reports received per year; and
- b) number and percentage of reports per year which have resulted in either a court decision or other types of follow-up.

No data is currently available on child abuse, but there is an on-going National Baseline Survey by the UNICEF CRC Chair, at the University of Lagos that will generate base data by 2006.

6. Please provide disaggregated data (by gender, age groups, ethnic groups, administrative states, urban and rural areas) for the years 2001, 2002 and 2003 on:
- a) the enrolment, attendance and completion rates in percentages of the relevant group in pre-primary schools, in primary schools and in secondary schools;
 - b) number and percentage of drop-outs and repetitions; and
 - c) ratio of teachers to students.

- 6.1 Responses to item 6 (a) – (c) are available in the Second Country Periodic Report under Cluster 7, item 7.1; Figures 7.1—7.4; and Tables 7.1—7.9 respectively. Additional disaggregated data are provided below in respect of primary school environment by gender and six geo-political zones of Nigeria (Tables 1.6.1—1.6.7) disaggregated data by sex.

7. Please provide disaggregated statistical data (by gender, age groups, ethnic groups, administrative states, urban and rural areas) on infant and child mortality, malnutrition, early pregnancy, sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), suicide, drug, alcohol, tobacco and other substance abuse for the years 2001, 2002 and 2003. Also, please provide numbers of health professionals working in the health care services for children.

7.1 Data on infant and child mortality, and malnutrition have been captured in the Second Periodic Report. As at the time of this report the numbers of health professionals working in the health care services for children and early pregnancy is not readily available, while use of drugs, tobacco, use of alcohol and other substances are part of the thematic areas to be surveyed in the National baseline Survey being conducted by the UNICEF CRC Chair at the University of Lagos.

8. Please provide disaggregated statistical data (by gender, age groups, ethnic groups, and administrative states, urban and rural areas) on the number of children:

8a) infected by HIV/AIDS;

As at the time of this report there is no specific data on children infected with HIV/AIDS

8b) affected by HIV/AIDS;

Data on children affected by HIV/AIDS have been reported in the Second Periodic Report captioned under 'Estimated Number of AIDS Orphans

8c) heading households due to HIV/AIDS;

As at the time of this report there is no specific data on children heading households due to HIV/AIDS

8d) orphans of HIV/AIDS living in extended families or institutions.

As at the time of this report there is no desegregated data on child orphans of HIV/AIDS living in extended families, while desegregated data on total estimated number of orphans due to HIV/AIDS have been reported in the Second Periodic Report . There is no specific data of children living in institutions based on death of both parents by HIV/AIDS

9. Please provide appropriate disaggregated data (including by gender, age, ethnic groups, and type of crime) for the years 2001, 2002 and 2003, in particular on the number of:

9a) persons under 18 who have allegedly committed a crime, reported to the police

9b) persons under 18 who have been sentenced and type of punishment or sanctions related to offences including length of deprivation of liberty;

Appropriate data on 9(a) and (b) above are available under Cluster 8 Item 8.4.7 of the Second Periodic Report

9c) persons under 18 who have been sentenced by Shari'a courts and type of punishment or sanctions related to offences

Several persons under 18 have been sentenced to the punishments of amputation and floggings related to a variety of offences under the respective State Sharia Penal Codes in Northern Nigeria. Between 2001 to date, none of the amputation sentences are known to have been carried out, as such sentences have been quashed by the appellate courts. However some of the boys have remained in detention centers for prolonged periods.

For instance, in July 2001, Abubakar Aliyu reported to be between 14 and 17 years old, was accused of stealing some money and was sentenced to amputation by an Upper Sharia Court in Kebbi State. Two co-defendants believed to be aged 16 were reportedly sentenced to fifty lashes and eighteen months in jail. Lawyers filed an appeal on behalf of Abubakar Aliyu, and Kebbi State Sharia Court of Appeal in Birnin Kebbi quashed the sentence for amputation on the grounds that he was a minor. Instead, the appellate court sentenced him to flogging of twenty strokes of the cane and sent him to a children's remand home for one year to learn vocational skills consistent with Sections 50, 72 and 96 of the Kebbi State Sharia Penal Code (Amendment) Law 2000.

A variety of offences are punishable by flogging under the Sharia Penal Codes; those most frequently punished in practice are consumption of alcohol, theft, and fornication. The number of strokes of the cane usually ranges from forty to one hundred, depending on the offence. Some of those flogged have been under the age of 18. In September 2000, the Sharia Court in Tsafe Local Government found Bariya Ibrahim Magazu, a 17 year old girl, guilty of fornication and sentenced her to one hundred lashes. She was eventually flogged on January 19, 2001.

It should be noted that there are problems with age documentation and accuracy of sentencing records, hence the inability to confirm the exact number of such sentences.

However, a recent Human Rights Watch Report put the figure at about twenty persons (see Human Rights Watch:- Nigeria:- Political Sharia:- Human Rights and Islamic Law in Northern Nigeria, September 2004, Vol. 16, No. 9(a)).

At present both Kebbi and Zamfara States are in the process of considering the passage of the Child Rights Laws to prohibit such sentences.

- 9d) detention for juvenile offenders (under 18) and their capacity;
- 9e) persons under 18 detained in these facilities and minors detained in adult facilities;
- 9f) persons under 18 kept in pre-trial detention and the average length of their detention;

9g) reported cases of abuse and maltreatment of persons under 18 during their arrest and detention; and

In response to issues 9(d)–(g) above, and at the time of this report, the Juvenile Justice Administration in Nigeria -Field Visits Report, of April 2003, revealed the distribution of inmates and the infrastructures in the various institution visited as follows:

Inmates in Prisons

The prisons face a similar problem of overcrowding in all geographical zones of the country. The worst cases are to be found in Lagos, Port Harcourt, Abuja, Kano and Calabar, where prisons are overcrowded by more than 50 percent.¹ The North is not as badly affected by this problem as the South. Overcrowding is particularly bad in large urban centres.

In the selected prisons visited, only 312 inmates were officially juveniles. The visits however revealed that there were more juveniles in custody than the official numbers indicate. In some cases, the juveniles can not give their correct age, which makes it difficult for the prison officials to correctly classify them.

Available Facilities in the Prisons

The prisons provide a range of facilities. In particular, many prisons offer vocational as well as recreational facilities. However, they are often ill equipped.

Due to overcrowding, the existing facilities are often inadequate for the inmates. It further compounds the low level of hygiene. Inmates frequently do not have enough space and health issues are not addressed adequately.

¹ Lagos Med. prison has the worst congestion rate (260%), but could not be visited by the team in Lagos: The number of inmates is much more than double the prisons capacity.

While some prisons have the privilege of well equipped hospitals and trained personnel, others lack equipment and drugs. E.g. Calabar Prison in the South South performs surgical operations.

Recreational facilities are often limited to a few games or to a football pitch, which is occupied mainly by the male inmates. In all prisons, there are no outdoor recreational facilities for female inmates. Many reports highlight the special need for recreational facilities for juveniles.

Generally, there is little or no emphasis in providing or maintaining recreational facilities in the prisons. However, the prison officials often appeal to NGO's and Civil Society Organisations to assist in the provision of such facilities. Overall, there is need to upgrade the existing facilities.

Separation of Lock Up Cells

Separation between adults and juveniles exists in few institutions. Reports indicate that they are often locked up and tried together. The big prisons have the capacity to physically separate juveniles from adults. For example, Ikoyi Prison in Lagos provides separate cells for the juveniles. As the Child's Rights Act became applicable across the Country, it is certain that this situation will change gradually.

Police Cell Inmates

The data collected from the police cells show that in many cases, there were no inmates present. Table 1..9.4 indicates that the presence of juveniles was negligible, as only 14 were found.

Available Facilities in the Police Cells

The facilities in the police cells are grossly inadequate. Most of the cells are overcrowded and lack basic equipment, like sleeping material or toilets, while the level of hygiene is unsatisfactory, and needs to be improved.

Inmates of the Juvenile Detention Centres

A look at the institutions shows that there are fewer girls than boys in custody. The North has more juvenile centres and juveniles are transferred straight from the courts to detention centres.

Juveniles are not separated according to their offences except with respect to capital offences. Offences for which juveniles are locked up include:

- Murder
- Manslaughter
- Rape
- Armed robbery
- Robbery
- Burglary
- Theft and stealing
- Receiving of stolen items
- Assault
- Conspiracy
- Truancy
- Public disturbance
- Beyond parental control

It is important to note that about 50 percent of juveniles in the juvenile detention centres are kept for being Beyond Parental Control. Of the remainder, very few are children in protective custody. In the prisons, only juveniles held for committing capital offences are separated.

Facilities Available in Juvenile Detention Centres

Most juvenile detention centres have facilities suited to the needs of young persons. They have facilities for education with available teachers, but there are inadequate teaching aids and materials. A range of vocational training is offered in tailoring, carpentry, shoemaking, farming, cookery.

Recreational facilities such as games and sports are provided. Sometimes, a well-equipped health facility is provided, but the problems of drug availability compel the transfer of ill inmates to regular hospitals.

Protective Custody for Juveniles

As stated earlier, there are facilities for taken care of quite a few juveniles in protective custody in the following centres—Imo State, State C.I.D., Owerri, Metro Police Station, Maiduguri and in Adeniji Adele Police Station, Lagos.

9h) Persons under 18 tried and Sentenced as Adults

No readily available data except for the notorious decided cases of R. V. Bangaza, R. V. Oladimeji, and State V. Obed Boardman.

The ratio was that they committed offences as juveniles but by the time of trial and sentence, they had become adults and the Courts sentenced them as adults. On appeal the Supreme Court held that the material time for sentence was at the time of commission of the offence and therefore could only be sentenced as juveniles and not as adult.

10. With reference to special protection measures, please provide statistical data (including by gender, age, urban/rural areas) per year for 2001, 2002 and 2003 on the number of:

- a) refugee children and internally displaced children;
- b) children affected by sexual exploitation, including prostitution, pornography and trafficking;
- c) street children;
- d) children who received assistance in recovery and counselling;
- e) children who were found engaging in forced and/or other forms of illegal child labour;
- f) children who were involved in communal conflict or violence;
- g) children aged 14-16 who are employed, or working; and
- h) children using narcotics and drugs.

The available data on these issues have been provided in Cluster 8 of the Second Periodic Report.

B. General Measures of Implementation

1. The Committee would appreciate receiving information on intended or planned activities related to recommendations contained in the Committee's previous concluding observations on the initial report of Nigeria (CRC/C/15/Add.61) which have not yet been fully implemented, in particular regarding: mainstreaming of customary law and regional and local legislation (para. 7), absence of adequate data collection systems (para. 9), insufficient allocation of resources for children (para. 10), lack of training and education on children's rights (para. 11), status and situation of girl children (para. 12), harmful traditional practices (para. 15), poverty (para. 17), sale, trafficking, sexual exploitation (para. 19), juvenile justice (para. 20), low age of criminal responsibility (para. 22), conditions of detention for children (para. 23), excessive use of force by law enforcement officials (para. 24) and economic exploitation (para. 25).

❖ Information on intended or planned activities relating to issues of recommendations have been addressed in Part 1, and Part 11- Clusters 1 and 8 of the Second Periodic Report in.

Budgetary allocations for matters relating to children have also been addressed in Table 1.2.1 above.

The combined effect of Sections 211 and 247 of CRA has detailed out the manner of handling children. A Juvenile Justice-Training Manual for law enforcement officials has been developed in order to enhance their capacity in handling of juvenile offenders with a view to discouraging the use of excessive use of force against children.

The activities of NAPTIP, NAPEP, National Directorate of Employment (NDE) and NGOs in combating trafficking in persons, rehabilitation of child victims of trafficking, empowerment of the family and children in particular, are being conducted with a view to enabling children avoid being victims of economic exploitation.

In addition, public enlightenment for both parents and children are being undertaken by both NAPTIP and various NGOs to impact on trafficking of children.

Regarding mainstreaming of customary laws, at present, researches have been carried out in order to properly ascertain the various customary laws relating to women and children. Essentially, customary law is dynamic and codification will certainly stultify its character.

An earlier Federal Government project by the Federal Ministry of Justice in collaboration with all the States Ministries of Justice recognized the need for clear ascertainment of the rules and principles of customary laws. It has been decided that the best approach is to preserve the dynamic characteristic of customary laws by means of Declarations, Restatements and Judicial pronouncements.

Reforms are being effected by means of legislative prohibitions, such as can be found among others, in the provisions of the Child's Rights Act 2003. All customary laws are subjected to the repugnancy doctrine before application, so that any customary law that is violative of this doctrine, in the sense of its being contrary to any legislative provision, natural justice, equity and good conscience is inapplicable and therefore, null and void.

2. Please indicate whether the Convention on the Rights of the Child has been invoked directly in domestic courts, and if so, please provide examples of such cases.

2.1 Nigeria is a dualist Country in terms of application of rules of International law within our domestic jurisdiction. Section 12 (1) of the Nigerian Constitution provides that no treaty between the federation and any other Country shall have the force of law except such treaty has been enacted into law by the National Assembly.

Therefore, treaty provisions cannot be invoked directly under the Nigerian domestic law, hence the enactment into law of the Child's Right's Act 2003 for purposes of implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

The Nigerian courts and others settling conflicts of interest, usually base their decisions on what is best for the child. When administrative authorities intervene and in situations where regulations are made in schools, at home and in the civil society, and when programmes are designed for children, most actions taken on behalf of children safeguard their best interest.

3. Please provide information on measures taken for a comprehensive review of all legislation, including any customary, religious, regional or local law in the State, to ensure compatibility with the Convention.

3.1 Details of this have been reported in Cluster 1, item 1.1 of the Second Periodic Report. In addition, the World Bank, UNICEF and NCWD are currently carrying out a project which aims at effecting harmonization and reform of customary/religious laws with a view to ensuring their compatibility with both the CRC and CEDAW.

4. Please provide information on the system of data collection and whether it covers all persons below 18 and all areas referred to in the Convention.

4.1 Government has established a mechanism for the collection of statistical data and monitoring indicators disaggregated by gender, rural, urban and ethnic organ as basis for designing programmes for children. Such mechanisms exist in the Federal Office of statistics, National Population Commission and National Data Bank. There are other complimentary mechanisms supported and financed by donor agencies as well as the University system such as UNICEF the CRC chair at the University of Lagos. Examples of such disaggregated data are provided in the various clusters of the Second Periodic Report.

5. Please provide a copy in English, of the Child Rights Act in May 2003, and information on the status of adoption of the Child Rights Act according to administrative states.

5.1 Besides the Federal Legislation, which is the CRA, four states have already enacted their own Child's Rights Law (CRL), while the Bills for the enactment of the CRL are before 20 other State Houses of Assembly.

6. Please provide information on the institution in charge of the coordination of the implementation of the Convention, and update the Committee of any new initiatives or mechanisms that have been established to coordinate policies for children and to implement the Convention at federal, state and local levels.

9.1 Inauguration of Children’s parliament

A two day special session was held for children on the 14 - 15 December, 2000 at the National Theatre, Iganmu Lagos. The programme was planned and coordinated by the Child Rights Information Bureau (CRIB) of the Federal Ministry of Information and National Orientation in collaboration with UNICEF and African Children Broadcasting Network (ACBN).

The wide objectives for the special session were to provide an opportunity for the children to get together and review the situation of children in Nigeria based on the child rights as stipulated in the Convention. It was to provide a forum for the children to participate in affairs affecting them and to provide agenda setting platform for policy makers. It is to institutionalize for the first time in the history of Nigeria a regular media dialogue with the President of the Federal Republic of Nigeria and to establish a Children’s Parliament.

9.2 Methodology

The first day of the special session held in Lagos featured the gathering together of children within the age range of 8-17 years, from a wide variety of backgrounds ranging from the private and public/government/vocational schools, those physically challenged, privileged and less privileged. The children though resident in Lagos and Ogun States were chosen from the six geo-political zones of the federation.

They were gathered for the purpose of rehearsing for the special session/dialogue with high government functionaries slated for the second day of the programme and for electing key officers into the children’s parliament.

Volunteers from a pool of about 500 children contested for the posts of President, Chief Whip, Clerk of the house and the Mace Bearer in three different groups. Contestants were asked to make speeches indicating why he/she should be appointed to any of the posts being contested for, and to demonstrate an in depth knowledge of the situation of the Nigerian child and provisions of the Convention on the Rights of the Child. Their appearance, comportment, eloquence and style of presentation formed the criteria of choice. After the presentations the children voted by a show of hands and elected the following as the key officers of the Children’s parliament:

- Senate President
- Chief Whip

- Clerk of the house
- Mace Bearer

9.3 Mandate

Please provide information on the National Human Rights Commission in Nigeria, including its mandate, functions, human and financial resources made available to the Commission, number of cases investigated and their outcomes, and provide specific information on cases involving children (e.g. number and nature of complaints filed by, or on behalf of children). Furthermore, please indicate how this Commission is ensuring its independence, in light of the Paris Principles (General Assembly resolution 48/134, annex).

11.1 Establishment and Mandate of the Commission

The National Human Rights Commission was established by the National Human Rights Commission Act 1995. Its functions are to create an enabling environment for extra-judicial recognition, promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights, in addition to providing a forum for public enlightenment and dialogue on human rights. It is also expected to facilitate the implementation of Nigeria's various international and regional treaty obligations on human rights issues.

The functions and powers of the Commission are provided in S.5 of its enabling act and include the following:

- a. Deal with all matters relating to the protection of human rights as guaranteed by the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, the African Charter (CAP 10 LFN 1990), the United Nations Charter and the Universal Declaration on Human Rights and other international treaties on human rights to which Nigeria is a signatory;
- b. Monitor and investigate all alleged cases of human rights violation in Nigeria and make appropriate recommendations to the Federal Government for the prosecution and such other actions as it may deem expedient in each circumstance;
- c. Assist victims of human rights violations and seek appropriate redress and remedies on their behalf;

The Commission has its headquarters in Abuja. In order to extend its services to the grass roots, the Commission has established five zonal offices in five geo-political zones of the country. The offices include

1. South-West—Lagos,
2. North-East—Maiduguri,
3. South-East—Enugu,
4. North-West—Kano
5. South-South—Port-Harcourt.

The North Central Zonal office is to be established soon in Jos. The Headquarters office in Abuja is now covering the North Central geo-political zone.

11.4 Management Structure of the Commission

The Commission has the following departments and units:

- Department of Legal and Investigation
- Department of Public Affairs and Information
- Department of Administration
- Department of Finance
- Department of Planning, Research and Statistics
- Human Rights Violation Monitoring Unit
- Audit Unit

- Anti-Corruption Unit

11.5 Staff Strength

The expansion of the Commission through the establishment of zonal offices led to the recruitment of additional staff. The staff complement of the Commission is now three hundred and seventeen (317), comprising one hundred and sixty-six (166) senior staff and one hundred and fifty one (151) junior staff.

11.6 Complaints Treatment Mechanism

The Commission has a viable and effective complaints mechanism for treating petitions on allegations of human rights violation. The Commission's work of investigating complaints and making appropriate recommendations, as well as seeking redress and remedies on behalf of victims of human rights violations, is undoubtedly one of its most important and challenging activity, and there is no gainsaying that it is of immense benefit to the ordinary citizens of this country.

Investigating complaints and seeking redress and remedies on behalf of victims by the Commission is only a complementary function to that of the courts of law, which have the primary responsibility for the protection and enforcement of those fundamental human rights under Chapter IV of the Nigerian Constitution. The Commission has from inception to 15 August 2004, received 2,916 complaints of violation of human rights covering the cases of over 14,000 persons. The commission charges no fees for filing of complaints nor for any of its functions under the act.

The subject matter of the complaints since inception of the Commission till date has not changed. These include:

- allegations of high-handedness by security agents and officials of government;
- disrespect or failure to obey court orders by government agencies/officials;
- undue delay in the dispensation of justice,
- detention without trial,
- illegal confiscation of property;
- unlawful termination of appointment;
- pleas for the grant of clemency;
- child abuse,
- communal clashes,
- environmental degradation,
- extra-judicial killings,
- domestic violence,
- torture,
- inhuman and degrading treatment,
- discriminatory practices against persons,
- harmful traditional practices.

With the advent of democracy and constitutional government, the number of complaints received yearly has more than quadrupled. This is certainly due to democratization of the polity and the public enlightenment embarked upon nationwide by the Commission. Specifically, the Commission received a total of 993 complaints in the 4 year period from

Nigeria—Response to List of Issues on the First Periodic Report

June 1996 to June 2000 while comparatively in July 2000 to 15 August, 2004, another four year period; it received a total of 1923 complaints, which is an increase of over 200%. This has understandably stretched the Commission’s capacity in terms of human, financial and material resources.

The breakdown of complaints received and treated by the Commission is shown below.

12 Please provide detailed information on the content of the National Plan of Action on children mentioned in the periodic report, paragraph 6, and the measures taken to implement the NPA.

12.1 The National Plan of Action (NPA) was initiated in 1992 to articulate Nigeria's responses to the issues raised by the CRC. It was meant to evolve a strategy for entrenching the right of the child in all aspects of national life.

The National Planning Commission, along with the Federal Ministry of Women Affairs and UNICEF is in the process of reviewing the NPA, to address the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and the World fit for Children Programme.

The National Plan of Action relates to the overall development programmes of the country and its implementation, in so far as it relates to children, are contained in the programmes and activities reported upon in the eight clusters of the Second Periodic report.

The national review brings together 36 national partners from line ministries, parastatals and agencies including Health, Education, Environment, Water Resource, Justice, Federal Office of Statistics, National Population Commission, and the National Planning Commission.

The National Planning Commission, with technical and financial assistance of UNICEF, has produced a set of guidelines to enable states develop their own State Plans of Action (SPAs), emphasizing the roles and responsibilities expected of each Agency towards the attainment of the Governments goals for the National Economic Empowerment Development Strategy (NEEDS) and State Economic Empowerment Strategy (SEEDS) by 2015.

13. Please provide updated information on efforts to disseminate the Convention by the State party

13.1 To facilitate the promotion of a protective environment for children, the country has embarked on various advocacy efforts of the parliament, human rights organisations, top policy makers, NGOs, children and media toward the launching, production and dissemination of copies of the Child’s Rights Act (CRA).

Popularisation of the CRA constitutes part of the ongoing process of popularisation of the Convention on the Rights of the child (CRC). In as much as the CRA is the medium of implementation of the CRC by domestic legislation, the CRC has been widely popularised and it’s still being popularised. The popularisation process is going. Since Nigeria ratified the Convention, about 100,000 copies have been distributed.

14. Please provide updated information on efforts made to provide training, awareness on the Convention and on human rights in general, to children, parents, teachers, social workers and other professionals working with/for children.

14.1 See Cluster 1 items 1.1.1 (iii) and item 1.2.3 of the Second Periodic Report on ‘Popularization’. Also the UNICEF’s CRC Chair in the University of Lagos is based on an agreement focusing on operational researches, implementation and monitoring in Nigeria with the aim of enriching the national capacity of understanding and analysis of child protection issues

15. Please provide additional information on the cooperation between the State Party and the international community including non-governmental organizations, in the efforts to implement the Convention.

15.1 The extent of cooperation between the State Party and the international community including non-governmental organizations, in the efforts to implement the Convention have been reported in Clusters 1, item 1.2.5 and Cluster 8, item 8.5.2 (x) of the Second Country Periodic Report, issued November 2004.

15.2 The Nigerian government in 1999, signed a Memorandum of Agreement (MOU) with ILO-IPEC on the elimination of child labour in Nigeria. Since year 2000, the ILO-IPEC has supported the Country to implement four Child Labour Elimination projects. The establishment of Two Pilot Emergency Shelter Centers for the rescue of trafficked children will foster cooperation between the Federal Government, the State Governments, the local community and the ILO-IPEC.

15.3 All the international instruments, as well as the NAPTIP Act emphasize the benefits of countries cooperating with one another in the fight against Traffic in Persons.

In line with this, UNICEF Nigeria recently facilitated a bilateral negotiation between Nigeria and Benin Republic, to exploit the existing Badagry Memorandum of Understanding between the two countries. The aim of the negotiation was the establishment of the Nigeria/Benin Joint Committee on Trafficking in Persons, which has already met in Lagos and Cotonou, respectively. The bilateral discussion has started yielding benefits, as Benin Republic only recently handed over to the Agency six victims and one trafficker. This effort will be replicated with other neighboring countries like Niger, Chad, Cameroun, Mali, Togo, and Burkina-Faso.

The Agency has taken advantage of the MOU signed between the Governments of Nigeria and Italy on human trafficking, to establish a closer cooperation with the Italian Anti-Mafia Bureau. Classified information from the Bureau reveals that over 50,000 Nigerian girls are working in the sex industry in Italy, and most of them are victims of trafficking. From the debriefing of victims recently repatriated from Italy, it is clear that these girls live in slave-like conditions and are forced to prostitute and make money for the crime barons amounting to Euro 40,000 – 50,000 before they regain their “freedom” The Agency’s collaboration with Italy has been truly rewarding.

The IOM has been of tremendous assistance to NAPTIP in various ways, culminating in the establishment of NAPTIP/IOM shelter in Benin City and Lagos for rehabilitation of trafficked victims.

The Agency has also participated actively in some bilateral and multilateral United Nations and Sub-regional conferences. Such conferences afforded the agency the opportunity for comparing notes and fine tuning national and international measures aimed at combating Trafficking in Persons, and to explore further ways of collaboration in the fight against the transnational aspect of the crime.

These conferences included:

- The International Workshop for Security Agencies in Ghana and Nigeria, 21 – 23 October 2003.
- The Second Session of the African Union Labour and Social Affairs Commission held in Cotonou, Benin Republic 19- 23 April, 2004;
- The 13th Session of the United Nations Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice in Vienna, Austria, April 2004;
- The Nigeria/America Joint Commission on Crime Prevention, held in Washington D. C. USA; and
- The Conference of Parties to the Transnational Organized Crime Prevention and its Protocol held in Vienna, Austria, July 2004.

Nigeria has taken steps to put in place proper legal institutional frameworks to meaningfully combat trafficking in persons.
